Will Lose No Time.

Discussing his enterprise yesterday, Mr. Mount said he would give employment in his factory to thirty-five persons next season. This number will be increased as the industry grows. The factory will be established in rented quarters at the beginning and a suit-able building will be erected during the year. Several places are now under consideration. All the machinery is on the way from the factory, and is expected to arrive any day.

Mr. Mount is an expert pickle man.

For the past ten years he has been associated with the Kuner Pickle com-pany of Denver, Colo. In addition to that he has been coming to Utah for twenty-five years, and knows all about local conditions.

Speaks of His Plans.

"I will be shipping Utah pickles from Salt Lake City next month," Mr. Mount said yesterday in discussing the matter. "I will get the raw material from the east to start with. Of course, after the coming season I will depend upon Utah for all the stuff I need. I will establish pickling tanks in Davis county for the reception of the cucumbers until I am ready to use them. It costs $3 freight to ship a barrel of pickles from Denver to Salt Lake City. That will shut out all Denver competition from this field. I will have the same advantage in all Montana and Idaho points. I see nothing to prevent ment here of a large factory. Of course I shall aim to make all the varieties of pickles now found on the market. I have my foreman with me at the hotel. He knows the business from start to finish, and so do I. The enterprise is bound to win from the start. The surprising thing is that a factory of this kind was not established

Utah's state prison had an average daily population of 193 218-365 convicts during the year 1905, according to the report of the state board of corrections to the officers a good portion of the evening. Wednesday, Jan. 24, was fixed upon as the date for the excursion. Held's full band will be taken along to furnish music. Stops will be made at Bountiful, Farmington, Kaysville, Ogden, Willard, Erigham City, Colliston, Deweyville, Cache Junction, Mendon and other points between Salt Lake City and Logan. Assurances were given that 500 would make the "Get acquainted" trip to the north. The excursion includes women as well as men. It is requested that all who desire to make the trip notify the association by 'phone or card.

Mayor E. M. Conroy of Ogden sent a communication heartily endorsing the idea of the excursion. Many will join at that place, where extra cars will be provided.

to the effect that Garside had not crossed this line. The cattlemen extended the line six miles further north a short time ago, but Garside, it is claimed, had not even crossed the new line.

The "deadline," of course, was simply a boundary established by the cattlemen on the theory that might makes right. There was no legal definition of it, but, owing to the primitive standards which govern in that section of country, the cattlemen established the line, and proposed to enforce it regardless of consequences. Garside, when killed, was four miles north of the old line, clearly within the grant 1905, according to the report of the state board of corrections, filed with Governor John C. ## WIRES GO DOWN BEFORE STORM

Two Horses Are Electrocuted.

PLANS PERFECTED FOR EXCUR- SERVICE IN SOUTHWESTERN PART OF CITY SUSPENDED.

> The wind storm which struck Salt Lake last night played havoc with the car service, the electric light and telephones wires. The wind came from the southeast and in the evening blew a gale. For over an hour all the cars stopped in the southeastern part of the city. Several circuits were burned out on account of broken telephone wires falling over the electric wires and threw that section of the city into darkness.

Gangs of men were put to work and the damages were soon repaired. The light, however, all over the city flickered until nearly midnight. Two horses driven to a hack by William Westcott better known as "Hoodoo Bill," into a charged telephone wire which crossed the electric light circuit at Tenth South and State streets and were instantly killed.

Some damage was done about the business districts. A large window in the Dooly block was broken and several persons narrowly escaped injury from the falling glass. Signs were blown down on the streets and awnings were torn off and fell to the sidewalk. The telephone wire hung almost to the ground, and when the cab passed, one of the horses ran into it. Both horses died almost instantly. Driver Westcott jumped from his seat and was uninjured. Dr. J. S. Richards, who was riding in the cab at the time felt a slight shock, but was not injured.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Jolly Girls" made good at the Lyric before a large audience last night. The performance is not all good, unless you happen to like the very rough, knockabout style of comedy, but there is enough good in it to make an evening spent at the Lyric well worth while. The radium dance alone is pretty nearly worth the price. A half-dozen young women wearing costumes that glow pure white on a dark stage offer a genuine novelty. It may be interesting to know how the light is acquired. The costumes are painted with a secret preparation that absorbs light rays. For night performances the girls stand close to arc lamps for twelve minutes before going on. In the daytime the costumes are exposed to the sunlight. In the olio last night there were some first-class stunts aside from the radium dance. George T. Davis, in illustrated songs; Lassard brothers, acrobats, and Melville and Rosalie, "cutups," performed very capably. "The Jolly Girls" will continue at the Lyric through next Friday night.
